

Crowds See Huge Parade

Four-Star General Smiles and Waves To Kansas Citizens Who Line Streets

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 6—(P)—Thousands of Kansas Citizens lined downtown streets along a two-mile route today to pay tribute to General Jonathan M. Wainwright and 24 fellow-veterans of Bataan and Corregidor in a gala American Legion-Victory Loan parade.

The four-star hero of the Philippines, his face radiant beneath a cap of gold braid, led the procession, smiling and waving to the cheering thousands. His official car was preceded by a color guard, the Fort Leavenworth military band and a formation of mechanized cavalry from Fort Riley, Kas.

As the Wainwright car threaded its way along the parade route, it was followed by nearly a score of bands, troops from Camp Crowder, Mo., Kansas City high school ROTC units, Waves and Gobs from Olathe, Kas., naval air station, nurses, Red Cross workers and Legionnaires.

The parade, one of the largest in Kansas City's history, started at 9:30 o'clock and lasted an hour. Later General Wainwright placed a wreath at the foot of the Liberty Memorial. Also scheduled for today was a visit to the veterans' facility at Wadsworth, Kas.

Speaks Tonight
Tonight he will speak at the municipal auditorium.

Gen. Wainwright was guest of honor at an American Legion dinner last night and was presented with a gold inscribed life membership in a Kansas City Legion post.

The 4-star hero of the Philippines, flanked by 23 other heroes of Bataan and Corregidor, all former prisoners of the Japs, was on a "furlough" from civic celebrations last night. As the Legion chairman, William Welsh of Kansas City, expressed the purpose of the dinner meeting, "This is strictly a GI session."

General Wainwright voiced his approval with the words, "I'm just an old GI."

Later, the heroic defender of Corregidor became a target for a hundred questions from Kansas and Missouri Legionnaires who packed a downtown hotel ballroom.

Speaks With Feeling
One question dealt with America's obligation to the Philippines—and what future policy should America follow in their behalf. Wainwright spoke with feeling. "Those people are 100 per cent loyal to us; they fought like tigers. Now don't let them down. Keep them up. We must support them." He added that, in his own opinion, the Filipinos were not anxious for independence.

Wainwright, in answer to another question, said he favored the establishment of a single command for our armed forces, adding that a unification of the huge supply problem would be perhaps the greatest single benefit to be derived from such a change.

Quit Bomb Jobs, Too Uncertain

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—(P)—Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves said today hundreds of workers, key men and scientists are quitting the atomic bomb project because of uncertainty over the future of their jobs.

Questioned about a report to this effect, General Groves, in overall charge of the atomic bomb project, told a reporter he has lost some of his best men, both at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Hanford, Wash., as well as at Los Alamos, N. Mex. He said field representatives report that in numerous instances departing workers list "uncertainty of the future" as a primary or secondary cause for quitting.

Although Groves would make no estimate of the extent to which this draining off of key workers has cut production, he asserted that there has been considerable slowdown.

Now Civilian Robert Taylor

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6—(P)—Lt. Robert Taylor, USNR, former film actor, is now Robert Taylor, civilian. He had served for 27 months as flight instructor and director of motion picture training films before his navy discharge yesterday.

Taylor said he hoped to return to film work, but that first he and Mrs. Taylor (actress Barbara Stanwyck) intend to take a vacation.

Eye Elections For Hint of Things to Come

Greatest Interest Seems to be In Detroit, Mich.

By The Associated Press

Voting was about normal today in the first elections since the end of the war but Detroit had an extra-large turnout.

Most of the elections were municipal. Politicians, however, eyed each anxiously for some hint of things to come in the 1946 congressional races—and even the 1948 presidential contest.

The greatest interest seemed to be in Detroit. There the municipal election was warm enough to bring out 122,000 voters by 11 a. m. That's twice as many as the count at the same hour in the last city election.

New York voters were turning out in about normal numbers for an off-year mayor race. At 11:30 a. m. 33 1-3 per cent of the 2,178,908 voters had marked their ballots. Elsewhere the balloting was rated as light or normal.

The weather man gave the voters a break. "Clear and sunny" was his report for almost all of the elections.

The Situation in Brief:

NEW YORK—William O'Dwyer, backed by some members of the national administration, ran on the Democratic and American Labor tickets against two opponents. They are Judge Jonah Goldstein, Republican-Liberal-Fusion candidate endorsed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey; and Newbold Morris, Republican independent bearing a "No Deal" label and supported by the retiring incumbent, Fiorello LaGuardia.

James A. Farley, former national Democratic chairman, Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.), Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace stumped for O'Dwyer. Mrs. Wendell Willkie and her late husband's 1940 campaign manager, Russell Davenport, worked for Morris.

DETROIT—Prestige of the CIO Political Action Committee was involved in an acrimonious mayoralty contest between Mayor Edward J. Jeffries, Jr., running for a fourth term, and Richard T. Frankenstein, vice-president of the CIO United Automobile Workers. Their candidacies are non-partisan.

Testify as to Jap Cruelty

MANILA, Nov. 6—(P)—A Spanish priest and a Filipino laborer, testifying at the war criminal trial of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, recounted today the starvation, torture and massacre of 6,000 Filipino and Chinese civilians by Japanese troops before the fall of Manila last spring.

Father Belarmino Decelis of the Spanish Augustinian order, said that last February 5 the Japanese jammed the 6,000 civilians into the ancient church of St. Augustine, oldest building in Manila.

The men were thrown into the old dungeons which served the Spanish 100 years ago. Women and children, he said, were kept without food in the church compound until they were so hungry they ate the grass and roots of the patio gardens.

On February 9, the men were taken out and forced to stand in the open streets under heavy artillery fire and then marched to Fort Santiago, where the burning and slaying took place.

Juan Paloda, the Filipino, testified he was one of 100 packed into a stone dungeon 20 feet square. He was stabbed later, and left for dead in a pit with 500 other bodies.

Sedalia Bid For Air Link

C. M. Van Dyne Attends Meeting Held In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6—Sedalia, Mo., feels it deserves and can justify trunk line air service. Charles M. Van Dyne representing the Chamber of Commerce testified here late Monday before Civil Aeronautics Board examiners Ferdinand D. Moran and James S. Keith in the Mississippi Valley area case.

People in Sedalia's trade territory are air minded and if the service is granted would avail themselves of air transportation," the witness said, and in his statement added "our industries were not created by the recent war but rather have been well established over a long period of time. My own company ADCO Inc., has considerable expansion planned. Other firms likewise have plans for expansion which have led the industrial committee of the C. of C. to estimate that an additional 500 homes must be built by an early date."

Van Dyne, chairman of the C. of C. Airport Committee, presented written statements from Mayor A. H. Wilks, the Chamber of Commerce, and several other business firms. Mayor Wilks in his statement pointed out that a bond issue recently was placed before citizens of Sedalia to raise $55,000 to purchase land for a municipal airport. This issue carried by an 11 to 1 majority. The witness said Sedalia was especially interested in mainland east-west service and adequate north-south service.

One of the applications being heard here is that of Transcontinental and Western Air Inc., which seeks permission to include both Sedalia and Jefferson City as scheduled stops on its now-existing route between Kansas City and St. Louis. If approved Sedalia thus would be linked with other cities on TWA's 7,700-mile coast to coast domestic service.

PARIS, Nov. 6—(P)—The first elected French legislature in five years convenes today, charged by the electorate with the task of replacing the 1875 constitution with a foundation of constitutional law upon which the fourth republic of France will be constructed.

To Replace Legislature

The first official act of the assembly will be the formal acceptance of Gen. Charles de Gaulle's wartime government.
Under the procedure previously laid down, the assembly will request De Gaulle to continue a caretaker government until later in the week, when the delegates select a president of the provisional government. There seemed little doubt that De Gaulle would serve as president in the seven-month period allotted the assembly for creation of a constitution to be submitted to a people's referendum.

The tall general who led France's fight for liberation will be present when the delegates sit for the first time in the red plush seats of the chamber of deputies in the Palais du Bourbon.
The 47-year-old former Maries county sheriff was made acting warden on the elevation of Warden Thomas E. Whitecotton to penal director, succeeding Loyd I. "Boots" Miller.

MacArthur Breaking up Jap Combines

All Policies and Personnel Must Have his Approval

By Murlin pincer

TOKYO, Nov. 6—(P)—General MacArthur today smashed Japan's four greatest financial and industrial families and gave notice of his intentions to break up all such combines to "aid Japanese economic development along peaceful, democratic lines."

The Japanese government was ordered immediately to prepare to dissolve Mitsui, Mitsubishi, Sumitomo and Yasuda Zaibatsu and their holding companies and to eliminate their controls of Japanese finances and industries.

MacArthur further told the government to set up a holding company liquidation association to direct the dissolution under indirect Allied control and warned that all policies and personnel must have his approval.

Along with the directive aimed at the great Zaibatsu interests with their ramifications, which spread throughout the world before the war, the supreme Allied commander said he intended to smash all such combines so as to permit "wider distribution of income and ownership of the means of production and trade in Japan and to aid the Japanese economic development along peaceful, democratic lines."

Sweeping Order

The government also was directed to take immediate steps to "terminate and prohibit Japanese participation in private international cartels or other restrictive private international contracts or arrangements."

The sweeping order—the most dramatic of all against individuals or corporations yet issued by MacArthur—means the complete retirement from Japan's business life of the four big families—Yasuda, Mitsui and Sumitomo, whose companies bear their names and Iwasaki, which controls the Mitsubishi interests.

"The way has been cleared for the first time in Japanese history for the Japanese people to achieve economic freedom," MacArthur said.

Directed to Resign

All members of the four families were directed to resign immediately from "all offices held by them in any financial, commercial, non-commercial or industrial enterprises" and "to cease forthwith to exercise any influence either directly or indirectly in their management."

The Japanese government must present for Allied approval a program for abrogation of current laws and regulations which foster private monopolies and enact new laws preventing monopolies and providing business opportunities on a competitive basis.

All securities owned by the holding companies or other "evidence of ownership or control" in any firm must be transferred to the new holding company liquidation commission, after which all holding company directors and officers must resign.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 6—(P)—W. C. Parker, acting warden at Missouri's penitentiary since Aug. 1, was appointed warden today by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly.

The 47-year-old former Maries county sheriff was made acting warden on the elevation of Warden Thomas E. Whitecotton to penal director, succeeding Loyd I. "Boots" Miller.

After finishing a four-year term as Maries county sheriff, Parker came to Jefferson City last January to become yardmaster and deputy warden at the prison. His home is Vienna, Mo.

Cigarette Tax Ordinance To Be Prepared

Council Votes To Help Auxiliary Buy Uniforms

The City Council, meeting in regular session Monday night, with Mayor A. H. Wilks presiding, voted to purchase $100 worth of tickets to the ball, Nov. 12, to be given by the American Legion Auxiliary police, proceeds to be used to buy uniforms for the members. The auxiliary police force donates its services to the city whenever called upon to supplement the regular police force. The motion to make the purchase was made by Ira Knox, third ward alderman, and Richard Keenan, of the second ward moved the tickets be given back to the organization.

Move For Cigarette Tax

Frank Middleton, first ward, stated the city needs more revenue and in his opinion non-essentials should be taxed rather than essentials. He therefore moved the City Counselor, D. S. Lamm, be asked to prepare an ordinance providing for a cigarette tax. The motion passed 4 to 3, Walter Smethers, Ira Knox and John Taylor voting no. Knox said an increase in taxes should begin on other things, while Taylor declared that the boys are now all coming back from the service and such a tax will hit them hard.

Keenan said he voted for the motion, not necessarily because he was for the tax, but he believes in democracy and thinks people should be entitled to vote if they want to. The recommendation of Mr. Middleton was two cents "tax on each package."

Renew Liquor Licenses

Renewal licenses were granted to: Leonard Kroencke to sell package liquor at 112 South Ohio avenue; to Earl Paul to sell liquor by the drink at Paul's Tavern, 117 West Main street and Albert Casing to sell liquor by the drink at 212 South Ohio avenue. A renewal application made by Philip Kain to sell 3.2 beer at the Grid-dle, 110 East Fifth street, was tabled until the next meeting.

Propose Shift 'Lights

Several ordinances were read for the first time. One provides for the erection of a street light at Tower and Engineer avenue, others were for changes in traffic lights as follows:

After some discussion of alleged damages to property on Eighteenth street and Washington avenue, due to water drainage, Mr. Middleton moved the city counselor be asked to take action against A. E. Brockman, asking him to open a dyke, so that a water course can take its original course.

Keenan complimented John Lueck, fire chief, on work recently on a stack at the disposal plant. The resignation of L. C. Corson as a member of the zoning board, due to the condition of his health, was read and accepted.

A delegation from the neighborhood of Sixth street and New York avenue was at the meeting making complaint of a business house on that corner, part of which, they state, was erected in violation of zoning laws. On motion of Knox the council voted to have the city counselor take action in the matter.

Benito Mussolini Was to Have Been Turned Over to Allies

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—(P)—Vengeance-seeking Italian underground fighters in Milan last spring prevented their government from fulfilling at least one of its 1943 surrender pledges to the Allies.

Publication of the 26-month-old armistice terms today disclosed that the Italian government pledged itself to apprehend and surrender "into the hands of the United Nations" one Benito Mussolini, among others.

But in the final days of the Axis military collapse, the northern Italian partisans got to Il Duce ahead of the surging Allied troops. They quickly tried and shot him, along with his mistress, Clara Petacci, and left their bodies to be kicked and battered by an angry crowd in a Milan square.

Major Strike Developments

By the Associated Press
Idle because of labor disputes across the country around 260,000, little change since Monday.

Major strike developments:
Transportation—AFL bus and street car operators of the Capital Transit company in Washington, D. C., quit work in wage dispute, declaring service for most of the 800,000 residents in the District of Columbia, including high percentage of 300,000 federal employees; a strike of Greyhound bus lines affecting 27 states, little indication of immediate settlement.

Textiles—Four cotton mills in Lewiston, Me., employing about 4,250 to 10,000 CIO striking textile workers in Maine closed indefinitely.

Lumber—Offer by four Portland (Ore.) sawmill operators to compromise wage demands of the striking AFL workers rejected by union official; walkout of 60,000 in sixth week.

Food—Wage increases granted AFL meat cutters and food store managers end five-day walkout which had closed virtually all major food stores in Salt Lake City.

Electrical goods—Strike of the AFL workers in General Cable company works at Bayonne, N. J., classes plant at Perth Amboy, N. J.; union officials said it will spread to Rome, N. Y., plant, affect 3,000 employees.

Would Share Bomb Secret

LONDON, Nov. 6—(P)—Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov called for an Allied control of Japan in a Moscow address today and declared "there ought to be no secrecy about the subject of atomic energy."

In a broadcast address opening Russia's observance of the 28th anniversary of the Soviet revolution, Molotov asserted:
"In the treatment of the defeated we should not let ourselves be guided by our feelings, but only by the necessity to prevent a new aggression. This applies to all countries which bear the responsibility for securing peace."

"We must then mention here the force of atomic energy which was experienced in the war with Japan. Nowadays there ought to be no secrecy about this subject."

This was the first time a high Soviet official had suggested that the United States and Great Britain share their practical knowledge of atomic energy as a means of warfare.

CIO-AFL Leaders Dispute

Lewis Demands Bigger Role, Delays Creation of Important Committee

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—(P)—Mine union leader John L. Lewis today won a fight for a seat on the key executive committee of the national labor-management conference. Originally the committee was to be of eight members, four each for labor and management. Labor's votes were to be divided between the CIO and AFL.

Lewis demanded a place for his United Mine Workers and prodded the conference into enlarging the executive committee membership to 16.

Eight seats each went to management and labor but labor's votes were split to give Lewis' mineworkers a committee post.

Under the revised plan, approved unanimously by the conference, labor's eight votes on the committee are divided this way:
Three each for AFL and CIO and one each for the mine workers and the railroad brotherhoods.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—(P)—A disclosure that President Truman has advised Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) that Congress should take responsibility in drafting a national defense program plunged the Senate into debate over Mr. Truman's policies today.

Wiley read the letter to the Senate and asserted that he thought a conference, similar to the labor-management meeting now underway, should be called on the question of peacetime conscription.

Wiley criticized the labor-management conference, however, as unrepresentative. He said it lacks any representation of the public, independent organized labor and unorganized labor.

He said he and many of his colleagues like President Truman but "find increasing dissatisfaction welling up in our minds on the actions of Harry Truman the statesman."

"The president makes a wage speech which goes up the hill and back down again and leaves the situation as badly muddled as before," Wiley declared.

"The president pleads for a program which out-new deals the New Deal, which item for item sounds like a CIO handout. 'Spend, spend, spend' with never a heed as to where and how the money is coming from."

Senator Hatch (D-N.M.) described Wiley's criticism of the president as a partisan attack.

"Next to international peace I think there is no more important question before this country than domestic peace in relations of labor and capital," Hatch said. "I applaud the president for calling the conference regardless of what the outcome is."

Hatch said that President Truman was being criticized in the Senate for the first time for "lack of statesmanship" whereas the late President Roosevelt had been under frequent attack "for too much leadership."

Hatch said he was "not defending President Truman because the president will be judged by the American people in the proper American way."

Survivors to Army Hospital

HONOLULU, Nov. 6—(P)—Eight survivors of an army transport command plane's forced landing at sea were in an army hospital here today under treatment for injuries.

One of the survivors said that the body of an unidentified WAC was among seven corpses brought here from the wreckage.

Search continued for persons still missing. Planes and navy surface vessels scouted the area 460 miles northeast of Oahu, where the liberator-type transport and its 21 passengers and five crewmen met disaster Saturday en route to the mainland from Honolulu.

The escort carrier Casablanca brought the eight survivors and seven bodies to Honolulu yesterday. Members of a special army board of inquiry immediately cautioned the survivors against discussing details of their experience.

Prominent Republican Dies, Revolver Near Body

CARROLLTON, Nov. 6—(P)—Roy H. Monier, a prominent figure in Missouri Republican politics for many years, was found dead at his home yesterday. A revolver found near the body led Coroner Charles Rutt to believe that the man apparently had taken his own life.

In the room, also, was a note from Monier to relatives, Rutt said last night.

Child Toddlers in Well and Drowns
JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 6—(P)—James Porting, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Porting of Jefferson City, toddled away from his mother's care yesterday, scrambled onto a loose cistern cover and fell into the water reservoir.

Firemen, called by the frantic mother, were unable to resuscitate the youngster after he had been in the water for about 20 minutes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—(P)—Mine union leader John L. Lewis today won a fight for a seat on the key executive committee of the national labor-management conference.

Originally the committee was to be of eight members, four each for labor and management. Labor's votes were to be divided between the CIO and AFL.

Lewis demanded a place for his United Mine Workers and prodded the conference into enlarging the executive committee membership to 16.

Under the revised plan, approved unanimously by the conference, labor's eight votes on the committee are divided this way:
Three each for AFL and CIO and one each for the mine workers and the railroad brotherhoods.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—(P)—A hot exchange between mine union leader John L. Lewis and CIO President Philip Murray today threw the labor-management conference into dispute over Lewis' demand for a bigger role.

Lewis came out of the scrap with a temporary victory by obtaining delay in conference action on creation of an important executive committee pending settlement of a controversy over union representation.

A proposed agenda for the conference called for an eight-member committee, with four places each for labor and management. Labor's votes were to be divided equally between the AFL and CIO. Lewis demanded places on the committee for his United Mine Workers and for the railroad brotherhoods.

Murray protests
Murray, one-time ally of Lewis before the UMW leader broke away from the CIO, protested any changes in the committee makeup. Murray declared he had heard reports of a "veritable blitz" by Lewis to get on the conference executive committee.

Lewis jumped up and shouted that Murray's words constituted "despicable and unique German terminology."

Gripping a conference table, Lewis roared that "Mr. Lewis doesn't care a tinker's malediction whether he is a member of any committee" personally. But the UMW chief made clear he wanted his mine workers represented.

Murray retorted that Lewis, from past acquaintance, knew he never employed "Hitler-like tactics." He added that he was prepared to support all recommendations of the conference rules committee and to give consideration to Lewis' position.

The fracas developed over the rules committee's recommendation that the conference arrange for an eight-member executive committee as proposed.

Lewis succeeded in getting the conference to leave open this question.

AFL President William Green backed Lewis. Green proposed executive committee representation for the UMW and the railroad brotherhoods before the conference's second day session began.

The four places for management on the committee would be divided equally between the National Association of Manufacturers and the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Eric Johnson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said the question was entirely up to the labor delegates.

The first big issue confronting the committee is a decision on the CIO's demand to bring the question of wages before the conference. Opposition has been expressed by both management and AFL groups to conference consideration of wages.

This would restrict the business of the conference to the seven-point agenda already prepared; that is to a search for specific ways and means of settling labor disputes without a rash of reconversion-obstructing work stoppages.

President Truman, in opening the meeting yesterday, declared that "the whole system of private enterprise" depended on the finding of

The Daily Washington
Merry-Go-
Round
by Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Elder statesman Bernie Baruch revealed some interesting figures on inflation recently in an off-the-record session with 14 younger congressmen at his Shoreham hotel apartment. Baruch's prediction was that the nation was hell-bent for inflation—and soon.

Piecemeal increases in wages, profits and the cost of living have been uneven, Baruch said, with wages lagging behind. For that reason he no longer favored his pre-war idea of a freeze on both prices and wages. Our only hope, said the elder statesman, is that we can weather the next six to nine months without running into serious inflation. If we do that, our chances of a strong recovery from the war boom are good.

"The huge, pent-up demand for products which we will see during the next nine months is a very serious threat," said Baruch, stressing the importance of holding prices down.

He amazed his listeners by saying that he is completely opposed to tax reduction of any nature at this time. "Not only does the government lose needed revenue, but it is an unhealthy thing for our general economy," argued Baruch.

Representative Andy Biemiller of Milwaukee asked what Baruch thought of the statement by General Motors' president C. E. Wilson that if wages are raised 30 per cent, prices must go up 30 per cent. Baruch talked at some length on the general question of raising prices, but gave no direct answer. Finally, Biemiller repeated his question.

"I'm afraid I can't agree with Mr. Wilson," Baruch said.

Wage Not Price Increase
"Isn't it true that industry can give a 30-per-cent wage increase without having to raise prices more than about 7 1/2 per cent?" Biemiller persisted.

"You are approximately right," Baruch agreed. "I believe the figure you may have heard is actually 8 1/2 per cent."

Baruch also told his guests that he felt we were making a mistake in speeding manpower demobilization. "With the world in its present situation," he said, "it seems to me it would be wiser to proceed slowly with demobilization, in order that we not weaken ourselves at a time when power is apparently still an important thing."

He agreed also with an idea proposed by one of his guests, Estes Kefauver of Chattanooga, to have cabinet members and other high officials appear on the floor of congress where they can be questioned by congressmen. "Such a practice would make for much greater cooperation between the executive and legislative departments," Baruch said.

Present in addition to Biemiller and Kefauver were Representatives Albert Gore and Percy Priest of Tennessee, John Sparkman of Alabama, Mike Mansfield of Montana, Henry Jackson of Washington, Jerry Voorhis and Chet Hollifield, California, Bob Sikes of Florida, Mike Monroney of Okla-

THE LAND OF THE "SPINX"

XXVI
GEORGES BAUD appeared one night with an Egyptian manager, Gino Abouin, in tow. This resulted in an engagement for Cairo and Alexandria for six weeks. It was not only a high salary but the source of much satisfaction to Morgan, whose great desire had always been to get a look at what he called "that ruddy Spinx."

We left Marseilles for Egypt with quite an impressive list of acts. Sascha Goudin and his troupe of Russian dancers, Mitty and Tillio, acrobatic dancers from the Casino de Paris, Pierrette Butterfly from the Champs-Elysees, and a girl called Musette who said she was English but might have been any nationality or any age. She dressed beautifully and had very well hennaed hair: her act consisted of playing the violin while doing an acrobatic dance.

Cairo was crowded with tourists of all nationalities but principally Americans, who stayed at Shepherd's in town, while the Gezirah and Mena Palaces, some distance out, were full of British officials with their families, and members of the diplomatic corps.

In a way, it was an extremely dull month, and had it not been for Musette's company, it would have been deadly, for on nights in the early part of the week we danced for the tables most of the time, and this, after Paris, was depressing.

I had received new letters from Leslie during recent months but knew he was stationed near Khartoum, and thinking it might be possible for him to obtain a furlough and come by military plane to Cairo, I cabled him about it. I wanted to talk over many things

Churchill in Defeat
Winston Churchill recently told friends how he felt after his defeat in the British elections. The first few days after his defeat were terrible, Churchill confessed. The very next morning he arose and fretted because there were no diplomatic cables to read.

Through the war, his first morning chore was to read the top-secret military and diplomatic cables from all over the empire; and he paced up and down intermittently for days, fretting because there were no cables coming in and because, though he felt things were going wrong, there was no one to whom he could send cables to straighten things out.

"Finally I went down to the south of France," Churchill confessed. "They treated me well there. I painted several pictures and they fed me some wonderful food. But still I couldn't get over this idea of no cables coming in and no cables going out. Each morning I fretted when I read the papers. But finally one morning I felt better. It suddenly dawned on me that I wasn't prime minister any more and it wasn't my worry, and I've felt better ever since."

Note — Churchill's health is touch and go. His doctor has ordered him to cut down on his food and drinking.

Truman's Democratic Pals

Just one morning after President Truman criticized the house committee on executive expenditures for stalling on the full employment bill, its chairman, Carter Manasco of Alabama, let the White House down with a big thump.

First he harangued Secretary of the Treasury Vinson with wails that the president's accusation was unjustified. Truman could do everything the full employment bill does without legislation, he maintained.

"That's an awfully big mouthful, Carter," drawled back the secretary of the treasury, who served in congress for years.

Next, Manasco implied that the full employment bill would give the chief executive power to reduce the value of stocks and bonds.

"I just can't read that into it," shot back Vinson.

Manasco's next move was to argue that strikes caused unemployment, and the administration ought to do something about the strikes before bothering the committee.

"Well, if we had full employment as under this bill," replied Vinson, "the causes of agitation would fall off."

Finally, Manasco turned the secretary of the treasury over to Clare Hoffman of Michigan, one nees and drank small cups of Turkish coffee.

The only acts that had come on from Cairo were Pierrette Butterfly, Musette, and myself as the star act, but at the rehearsal we met a dance team booked from London who were to fill out the bill, with the assistance of a magician from Marseilles. We were the distinguished imported acts, for in the lobby there were the usual attractions—Arab dancers who wiggled and jerked their stomachs to the wailings and thumpings of a native band, and who were fat, greasy, and depressing.

The place was simply unbelievable, and the dressing-rooms defied description. Preceding acts had scrawled their names in grease paint on the walls, with obscene comments about the establishment and its directors in five different languages. But the performance was the pay-off, for the audience (which consisted mainly of natives, with a sprinkling of French bourgeois and German tourists) were so absorbed in their eternal game of dominoes, they barely gave us a glance. Even Pierrette's high soprano notes failed to get more than a casual applause, and after they examined me from all angles on the rope, they decided I was too thin, according to Morgan, who understood Arabic.

As the ghastly engagement drew to its close, I had a foreboding that something else unpleasant was about to happen. Sure enough, the bad tidings came in a letter from my brother, who had gone to Paris, alarmed by the news that mother was in my apartment, very ill with influenza, and had absolutely refused medical care. This was most unusual, for she had always been inclined to fly to a doctor at the slightest sign of ill health.

My brother's letter decided me to break my contract and return to Paris. After much argument and bickering, I finally came to an arrangement whereby the management would release me from the last week of my contract and I would waive the return passage to Marseilles in compensation.

THE DOCTOR SAYS
Virus Pneumonia a Recent Discovery
By WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

When patients with respiratory infections were given special X-ray, blood and bacteriologic tests a few years ago, a new variety of pneumonia was brought to light. It was learned that pneumonia (inflammation of the lungs) could be caused by a virus as well as by germs. Virus pneumonia is also known as atypical pneumonia because of its irregular course and symptoms.

Virus pneumonia starts with a running nose, throat irritability, headache, chilliness, fever, generalized body aches and cough. Usual story is a neglected head cold which became more severe.

X-Ray Shows Trouble
Complaints of weakness, sweating and loss of appetite are common. Temperature usually is not high, color is good and breathing is not labored. Examination of the chest with the X-ray shows extensive involvement with patches throughout both lungs. These patches are caused by collapsed air sacs from which the swollen inflamed bronchi have shut off the air; when the bronchi reopen, the shadows disappear as the air returns.

Average patients are acutely ill about a week or 10 days, but are not considered to be well until the lungs are clear.

Dry, harsh, irritating cough is a troublesome feature of virus pneumonia. Patients often cough until the chest and abdominal muscles are sore; fractured ribs have been reported from excessive coughing. Cough may persist for three or four weeks after the fever has subsided.

Virus pneumonia has been transmitted to healthy subjects who volunteered for the experiment. The infection is moderately contagious and may occur in epidemics.

Plenty of Liquids
Patients with virus pneumonia should stay in bed a week or 10 days or longer if necessary. They need plenty of nourishing food and should be encouraged to drink liberal quantities of water and juices. Drugs which suppress irritated bronchi bring the most relief. Sulfa drugs or penicillin are not of value except to ward off possible complication. Usual course of virus pneumonia is favorable. Although the death rate is low, the disease is disabling and convalescence is protracted.

Some cases of virus pneumonia might be prevented if those suffering with upper respiratory infections would go to bed and stay there until they are well.

Speaks On Japs

The Japanese people will have to be taught adult thinking, Lieut. Rose Liebbrand, stationed at the Sedalia Army Air Field, asserted in a talk on "The Characteristics of the Japanese," at a meeting of American Legion Post No. 16 auxiliary Monday night at Parish hall.

Lieut. Liebbrand, a former newspaper woman in the Orient, pointed out that the Japanese way of living must be changed, so that they have a sense of self-direction, rather than following, childishly and blindly, rules and customs set forth by an imperialistic government. "They must be taught to think for themselves," she emphasized. The speaker described the pre-war dress, modes and manner of living of the Japanese.

She was introduced to the audience by Mrs. Allen Duff, program chairman.

A business meeting, preceding her talk, was opened by the president, Mrs. Elmer F. Winfrey.

Two new members of the auxiliary are Mrs. J. L. Curry, whose daughter, Lieut. Juanita Curry, is in the Army Nurse Corps and Mrs. Bertha J. Johnson, whose daughter, Miss Bertha L. Johnson, served in the Women's Army Corps. Both service women are members of American Legion Post 16.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Battle Axers Hit
Hardest in Trap

By NEA Service

The 65th (Battle Ax) Infantry Division was forged in August, 1943, and tempered for nearly two years. It was not until March 7, 1945, that it was unseathed.

The 65th moved into its first action on the Third Army front in Europe, relieving the 26th Division in the Saar River sector around Sauerlauren. The Battle Ax outfit cut its way across the Saar, swung around the flank of Saarbrücken and, late in the month, chopped up the German pockets southward west of that city.

Moving fast, the 65th added Hohenfels and Struth to its bag. It was here, near Dorna, that 11 65th doughs, hopelessly surrounded, terrifically outnumbered, won themselves a place in the division's history by capturing 150 Germans and killing another 25.

Just before V-E Day, the Battle Axers claimed the distinction of having made the farthest penetration of enemy territory of any infantry unit on the Western Front—a 65th patrol crossed the Ems River and proceeded as far as Unterwinden and Haag, in Austria.

Up to then, the Battle Ax had been swinging with vigor. The 65th had crossed the Danube at Kelheim, and joined the assault on Regensburg. When the garrison at that city finally called it a day, it surrendered to the 65th.

The division then slashed on into the Bavarian Redoubt and took Passau and Neumarkt. It was on the afternoon of V-E Day, fittingly enough, that the Battle Axers joined up with the Russians.

Whittling down the telephone waiting list

By putting in telephones as fast as possible, we're slowly but surely whittling down the list of 246,000 people waiting for telephones in the Southwest at war's end.

But installing a telephone is just the last step in furnishing telephone service. Wires and cables must connect each telephone to a central office, and complex equipment in the central office must be ready.

Telephone factories are turning such equipment out in a swelling stream. Even after we get it, a big job remains. That's the job of installing it—making sure that each of thousands and thousands of connections is made right.

But we've made a start; we're on our way. During the months ahead, more and more cable and switchboards and dial equipment will make room on our lines for more and more people, until the day comes when we can again serve anyone who wants a telephone, when he wants it.

La Monte High School Grad Honored as 'Soldier of Week'

Distinguished as "Soldier of the Week" in the September 29 feature section of "Parade Rest," an army publication, was T/Sgt. Kenneth E. Rogers, whose wife, the former Mary Ellis, resides at 1105 West Eleventh street, and whose mother, Mrs. John Little, lives in La Monte.

Rogers, a graduate of La Monte high school, entered military service in 1942 and has served overseas over a year. He is expected home in the immediate future.

The "Soldier of the Week" article, subheaded "Sgt. Rogers Didn't Know Meaning of Quit," is quoted below:

Made Seven Trips to Pill-Box in Five Hours

"How would you like to make seven different trips up to a pill-box in the Siegfried Line in the space of five hours under combat conditions and made even more difficult by cold and snow? In case your imagination isn't vivid enough to picture the difficulties of such a task, question T/Sgt. Kenneth E. Rogers of Fox Company and you'll discover the immensity of the job. Sgt. Rogers is the man who did it. Like other 'Lightning' heroes, he didn't know the meaning of the word quit.

On Siegfried Line

"It was 1100 on the 11th of January, while the regiment was engaged in the bitter fighting among the pill-boxes in the white-draped Siegfried Line, Company F, 309th Infantry was assigned the mission of capturing high ground protected by a German pill-box. T-Sgt. Rogers, known to his men as 'Buck,' led a party of five men forward under heavy fire for a distance of 75 yards. Reaching the pill-box, they placed a 40-pound shape charge directly on top and then took off for cover. But the fuse failed to ignite and the party returned back up to the fortification to refuse the charge.

"This time the charge blew, but when the group returned to take the pill box the enemy refused to come out. Undismayed, Sgt. Rogers obtained more demolitions and led his men forward again. One 40-lb. beehive charge and two 10-lb. charges were set up, but once again the fuse failed to ignite. The party returned to their objective and refused the charges.

"The men took over, and the charge went off with a tremendous explosion that shook the ground and reverberated in the cold, crisp air.

Plenty of Action

"But Rogers' job was not done. With unfailing drive he led his men to the mangled post of the enemy—this time with two bangalore torpedoes which were placed in the holes made by previous charges. A one-inch fuse was pulled and the Fox men moved quickly to the side of the box. The blast killed four of the enemy and caused 21 members of the so-called 'superior race' to surrender.

"The American group, now reduced to four men, took the prisoners into custody and went back up to the front, where they entered the pill-box, captured five more Krauts, and secured valuable papers and information.

"By this time it was 1600 and Sgt. Rogers had completed seven trips up to the enemy fortification. It should have been a day but it wasn't.

"That night there was a terrific counterattack. The Jerries infiltrated through to American lines and the night was filled with the chatter of machine and burp guns as the Germans made their way behind Fox Company. There were many buddies left behind on the snow that night as Fox Company fought for existence. The same determination which Sgt.

Rogers had shown earlier in the day was shown by the company during the night as they successfully defended their position.

"For his action on the 11th of January, T/Sgt. Kenneth E. Rogers was awarded the Bronze Star for 'distinguishing himself by gallantry in action.'

"Rogers the Man"

"By now you probably are under the impression that 'Buck' Rogers is a bold, blustering, devil-may-care Joe who drives his men relentlessly and who is full of tales of his own individual prowess. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

"Rogers is another one of those many diehard men who have proven their mettle the hard way on the flaming battlefield and who have emerged with a sense of modesty, of appreciation for past training, and of thankfulness that it's all over. Ask any member of Fox Company what he thinks of Ken Rogers and he'll overwhelm you with praise for the platoon sergeant as well as with countless stories of the care and understanding with which he handled his men.

"Sgt. Rogers, who wears the Purple Heart and three battle stars, is now acting first sergeant of his company. He is well qualified as a leader, for with the high rate of loss in his outfit during combat, he more often than not found himself without a platoon leader. He was offered a commission, but turned it down in order to remain with his men and with his unit.

"Despite his claim to greatness on the basis of his combat record, Sgt. Rogers is thinking of home these days. His 65 points appear good enough to make his dream of returning home to La Monte, Mo., come true in the near future.

"His past won't be forgotten, however. Rogers is convinced we should have a post-war draft to control our enemies. He believes army experience will be educational for the drafted fledglings who may come over to do occupational duty.

"Fox Company's man of the week is hoping to do his share of fishing and hunting when he again dons the civvies. Better carry a rifle, Sgt., and not try dynamite. The fuse may not go off!"

Rogers' brother, Russell Rogers, who served as cook with the rank of staff sergeant in Europe for almost three years, received his honorable discharge at Camp McCoy, Wis., October 16, and after a visit in La Monte has returned to Des Moines, Ia., to be with his wife and family.

Woman, Plane Crash Survivor, Writes Story of the Wreck

(Editor's Note: The following story of the crash of the Army Transport Comm and Liberator in the Pacific Saturday was written for the Associated Press by Mardieze Anna Trautman, the only woman survivor of the crash. She was a civilian employee of the Hawaiian air depot.)

By Mardieze Anna Trautman
TRIPLER HOSPITAL, Oahu, Nov. 6—(P)—It was my rosary, good luck and John Patrick that saved me.

I received the rosary, a sterling silver rosary, too, just a couple of hours before I left on the plane for Tacoma, Wash., to visit my brother, Leonard, who is ill. It came from my mother in Ferdinand, Ida., and was marked "Do not open until Christmas." But I did, and I'm glad of it now.

Patrick, I do not know where he's from, but I was standing on a wing of the plane with a powerful rough sea washing around me. I guess I was frightened because I don't remember getting into the raft with him. He's the one who got the rafts and tossed them into the sea. It wasn't until I was on the raft and safe with him that my Mae West (life jacket) was inflated. He did that for me too. Luck, it was just luck all along.

First Plane Ride
It was my first plane ride, but despite the terrible experience, I'm not afraid of them. I figure it just had to happen and if it hadn't happened to us it would have to someone else. That's the luck I was talking about. And when I try to reach the mainland again, it will be by plane.

I went to sleep soon after the lights of Honolulu were no longer visible and the first I knew afterward was when Patrick, in a very soft voice told me to put on my safety belt, we are going to land.

I had been on ships and thought it was just a practice until I heard some bloody murder screams. A WAC who was among the seven dead returned aboard the escort carrier Casablanca which brought us to Honolulu, in excitement, grabbed my Mae West but gave it back. A colonel, who was a passenger in the seat with me, and I found one for her.

The plane made a very rough landing, part of the tail was knocked off and the plane seemed to split. It was standing on its nose. I'm afraid those in the back part may have been hurled against the front of the plane and knocked out.

Because it was my first plane ride, I acted like a country girl while the others who had plane experience knew the difficulty we faced.

Water lifted the plane up and the colonel called to me to come to the front of the plane. We got on a wing and I became worried for the first time because I can't swim, and the water was rushing up. The colonel went down in the water and after that I didn't see the WAC. About that time there was lots of screaming.

I don't remember much after that until I was in the raft with Patrick. I couldn't move my legs then, but all that seems wrong now is my back—and pain in the pelvic region. When I was feeling to see if I was bloody I found my rosary. I found it in my vest and felt much relieved.

We were in the raft about ten hours before the destroyer escort Tills picked us up. Later we were transferred to the Casablanca. My teeth were chattering so bad some crewmen of the Tills put a pair of army socks in my mouth. I was placed on a stretcher and transferred by pulley and rope to the Casablanca.

Supreme Court Upholds City

The Missouri Supreme Court affirmed, November 5, the City of Sedalia's rights to a strip of land 625 feet long comprising the west part of Crown Hill cemetery.

George Anson, who bought the George R. Smith college property in 1943, contended the strip was part of the college property and that the city could not get it by adverse possession because the land had been devoted to a "pious use" and under Missouri law could not become property of the city. The city, represented by D. S. Lamm, city counselor, claimed by adverse possession to the west fence and that the "pious use" of the college property had been abandoned.

The Supreme Court upheld the city contention and held the strip of land now belongs to the city. Mr. Anson also sued Paul F. Tietze and eight other defendants represented by H. C. Salveter claiming they had not rights of passage over land purchased by him. Mr. Anson was ruled owner free from the claimed rights of passageways.

Offer New Bill On Control Atomic Energy

Would Restrict Secrecy to Weapons Using the Power

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—(P)—Senator Ball (R-Minn) offered a new bill today on control of atomic energy which would restrict secrecy to military weapons using the new-found power.

Ball proposed it as a substitute to the May-Johnson measure approved by the house military committee, saying that bill is too strict and "creates a giant monopoly" in the new field.

The house committee meanwhile relaxed restrictions imposed by the May-Johnson bill on scientific experiments, as revised, the measure would permit experiments so long as they do not release sufficient atomic energy to become a national hazard.

The house group urged that congress go ahead with development of domestic phases of atomic energy. On the controversial point of sharing American knowledge with other countries, it set forth that the May-Johnson bill "does not prejudice the international field."

Ball Said in a Statement:

"I agree with most of the scientists who have expressed themselves on the May-Johnson bill that as it stands it is not only undemocratic, in that it creates a gigantic monopoly which would function in complete secrecy, but it is also impractical, because its stringent secrecy and control requirements would slow down rather than speed up both fundamental research and research on peaceful application of atomic energy."

"This bill (his own) is an attempt to free research on fundamentals and on industrial application, subject only to broad governmental control through allocation of materials and licensing, while retaining the secrecy required for security only on the purely military application of atomic energy."

The commission would have no power to impose secrecy in fundamental and industrial applications.

State Service For Mothers

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 6—(P)—Emergency maternity and infant care is now available to the wives of discharged veterans, if they became pregnant while hubby was in the service, state department of health officials said today.

To get the federal aid, the veteran must have been in the lowest four pay grades in the army, navy or marine corps. No aid will go to the civilian family if the wife was expectant before Jan. 1, 1945.

Since the emergency maternity program began early in the war, Missouri health officials have paid out over $2,500,000 in federal funds to some 28,000 mothers for deliveries and infant care. Officials predicted the program would last "another two and one-third years" after the formal cessation of hostilities, now that wives of returned servicemen are included in the plan.

Private physicians under the "E. M. I. C." plan attend mothers and the federal government pays the bill through the state health department. Over 135 hospitals in the state co-operate. "We've paid as much as $3,000 in hospital bills for one mother who needed special care," a department official said.

Superintendent State Highway Patrol is Speaker at Sorosis

Valuable information was given Monday afternoon at the Sorosis club meeting when Colonel Hugh Waggoner, head of the State Highway Patrol of Jefferson City, told of the work of his organization, what it had accomplished in the years that it has been in existence and what it planned to do in the post-war years.

The State Highway Patrol, Col. Waggoner said, was organized in 1931 with a force of fifty-five men. Its main object was control of traffic but its progress was rapid. Later it was given full police power and today Missouri has one of the leading state police bodies in the United States. There are 175 men on the force today with fifty-eight in the armed services. These men are now being released and are coming back to places held open for them during the war. There are 118 patrol cars, each equipped with a two way radio, that they may contact each other over the state.

A campaign of crime followed the last war, the speaker said, with robbing, killing and kidnapping and it was at the height of this crime wave that the Highway Patrol was given full police power. Bank robberies, which were prevalent at that period, have decreased until the past year there were only two in the state.

The wave of crime coming out of the present war will not come from returning servicemen but rather from the juveniles. Children have been neglected during the war. Fathers and brothers, whose companionship and guidance have such a great influence in young lives, were in service. Mothers took jobs in war plants and left their children to the care of those whose advice they disregarded. Their young minds did not realize that children, too, had a part in this war. They were allowed to run the streets. They were pampered too much, heard talk that poisoned their minds, were given too free a rein. Today, Col. Waggoner said, our biggest problem is juvenile delinquency.

With the rationing of gasoline, tires and cars, the speaker stated, accidents, injuries and fatalities decreased fifty percent, but with the sudden end of the war and rationing, traffic accidents have increased over night. In October the accident rate in Missouri was 53 percent higher than it was in September and 139 percent higher than it was a year ago. There were 92 cars stolen last month which is 51 percent higher than a year ago. When car thefts increase other major crimes increase. Major crimes are 59 percent higher than they were a year ago and misdemeanors only 4 per cent higher. There were 1,320 arrests in the state in October with $20,495 in fines which is 58 percent over September and 32 percent more than a year ago.

There are not enough men on the Highway Patrol at the present time Col. Waggoner pointed out. There are only two in Pettis county. The Highway Patrol is a non-political, non-pressure group. Men take an oath when they go on the patrol and it is consequently a strong, good, loyal organization, with each man realizing that he has a big job to do.

One of the jobs of the Highway Patrol is the enforcing of the traffic laws. They are constantly in search of such law violators as those who drive cars with no tail lights, no horns, bad brakes and who fail to dim lights. These laws were all made to save lives and until the public understands the dangers of these violations and cooperates in enforcing them the traffic fatalities will mount.

Col. Waggoner emphasized the fact that it is up to each individual, whether they are going only to the grocery store or to a far away state, whether they are driving a car, riding a bicycle or walking, it is the sacred duty of everyone to protect his life and the lives of other people, by observing all laws. Every accident is caused because somebody does not take time to remember.

The Highway Patrol, Col. Waggoner said, is trying to enforce those laws. It is trying to protect the needs of the people and apprehend criminals. It is trying to give the high type of law enforcement that the people of the state deserve and expect.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Etta Hurley, chairman of the civics department.

Mrs. Cecil Owen, chairman of the Art and Drama department, announced that the speaker on next week's program will be Miss Hazel Gray of the Sedalia school faculty, who will talk on "The Islands of the Pacific."

Mrs. Austin Hurley, president of Sorosis, presided over the meeting.

Missouri Play Boys Reorganize Orchestra

Dick Bennett and his Missouri Play Boys have reorganized with most of the members back after serving in the armed forces.

They made their third appearance of the season in "Support Your Teen Age Clubs" at Houstonia. They played at Crocker Monday night.

When all members of the orchestra have returned they plan to go east for bookings.

Guilty In Death Of A Patient

NEVADA, Mo., Nov. 6.—(P)—Massey E. Cloninger, 53, night attendant at the state hospital at Nevada, was convicted Monday manslaughter and sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary for the death of Cordell Humphrey, 67, a patient at the state hospital last July 6.

A Vernon county circuit court jury deliberated only 10 minutes to reach the verdict.

Two patients at the hospital, Augustus Raymond Godwin and Lawrence Dodd, testified at the one-day trial that they saw Cloninger knock down Humphreys, kick him and beat him with a strap.

Oren S. Lilley, state highway patrol laboratory research technician, testified that the strap, admitted as evidence, showed human blood stains.

A. E. Elliott, assistant county prosecutor, and John Flamminton, Jr., Carthage, represented the state.

Judge O. O. Brown, Stockton, pronounced sentence.

Cloninger, through his attorney, filed a motion for a new trial.

NEW GIANT X-RAY

The Latest Development in 50 Years of X-Ray Research

1895—Roentgen, in Germany, discovers mysterious powerful ray, names it "X"—the unknown. One year later, W. D. Coolidge, student at M.I.T., begins experimenting with x-rays. First x-ray tubes were about 25,000 volts.

1913—Dr. W. D. Coolidge, at General Electric, invents revolutionary new x-ray tube. First reliable method of controlling x-rays. This tube was 100,000 volts.

1920—Coolidge designs a completely insulated tube and transformer for a thoroughly safe x-ray unit. The first wholly safe, convenient and adequate dental x-ray outfit came out of this.

1945—NEW G-E 100-MILLION-VOLT "BETATRON"!

This 130-ton giant whirls electrons, tiniest parts of atoms, faster than man has ever been able to speed them before. So fast that they make the nearly 17-foot circular orbit of a doughnut-shaped vacuum tube 250,000 times in 1/240th of a second, and, striking a tungsten target, produce x-rays of 100-million-electron volts!

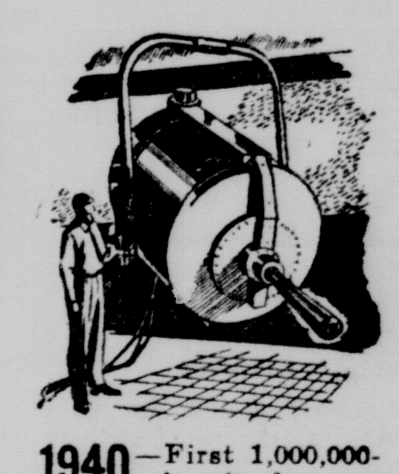

Dr. E. E. Charlton, left, and W. F. Westendorp, G-E scientists, designed this new machine, which generates x-rays over a thousand

1923—Coolidge develops a 200,000-volt "deep therapy" tube with water-cooled target. This higher voltage tube greatly reduced time required for x-ray treatments.

1933—General Electric builds multi-section tubes producing 800,000-volt x-rays. Installed in Mercy Hospital, Chicago, and Swedish Hospital, Seattle, these units have been in constant use ever since.

1940—First 1,000,000-volt unit, plus portability, making x-rays more useful to medicine and industry. Fifty-six of these units built by G-E X-Ray Corporation used in U.S. war production—even flown to England. In 1943 General Electric scientists and engineers developed the first portable 2,000,000-volt x-ray.

Time: 8:30 Tuesday night
Place: State Guard Armory.
Referee: Jimmy Parker.

The wrestling matches tonight, sponsored by Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion, bring together six men who have produced some good wrestling, some rough house tactics, and plenty of thrilling moments for the local fans. The main event between Ray Graham, Dallas, Texas, and Vic Holbrook, Hollywood, Calif., will be one in which plenty of rough tactics will no doubt be used and at the same time each wrestler trying to out-smart his opponent in his favorite hold.

Graham will endeavor to use his famous Texas hold in which he flips his opponent over his head smashing his face to the canvas and then pinning his shoulders to the mat, while Holbrook will endeavor to slip his "abdominal stretch" on Graham and force him to give up. Anyway it goes it should be good.

The semi-windup will see Ken Fenelon of Dubuque, coming back to meet Ralph Garibaldi, East St. Louis. Fenelon has been out of the ring for two weeks because of the death of his father two weeks ago, and tonight resumes his wrestling.

Cousin Danny Fenelon is appearing for his second time in the local ring, meeting Billy Black of Chattanooga, Tenn., in the preliminary. This likewise should be an entertaining event.

Jimmy Parker will handle the matches in the ring.

Sedalian and Former Sedalian Get Deer

J. W. Smith, 703 South Lafayette avenue, was another lucky Sedalian during the three-day deer hunting season. Mr. Smith killed a three-point deer near Ellington, Mo., about 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning.

Mr. Smith shot the deer in the shoulder, jaw and back of its head. He used a 32-40 rifle.

He was accompanied on the hunt by Mrs. Smith and her brother Harvey Lee Simmons, 711 South Lafayette avenue.

He has the deer in cold storage.

Kermitt Keltner, of Marshall, a former Sedalian, is one of the lucky deer hunters of the season.

While hunting in Taney county on the second day of the deer season he killed a 17-point antler deer, weighing 260 pounds, one of the largest animals reported by deer hunters.

Old timers in the neighborhood were much interested. They stated it had an unusual mouth, known as a parrot mouth, and was in every way an outstanding animal.

Mr. Keltner butchered the deer himself and will have the head mounted.

Army Would Like Bowl Game New Year's Day

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(P)—Army's all-conquering gridgers would like to play in a bowl game New Year's day, says Lt. Col. Carl Hinkle, assistant coach at West Point.

"The boys want to go," Hinkle told the New York football writers at their weekly luncheon yesterday but he pointed out the final decision on a bid, if any comes, will be up to West Point Superintendent Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor.

The former All-America center at Vanderbilt indicated the cadets were thinking in terms of the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif.

No Irish-Navy Score In Newsreel Picture

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(P)—Newsreel pictures of the windup of last Saturday's Notre Dame-Navy game have convinced Notre Dame publicity man Walter Kennedy and New York sports writers that the Irish failed to score on the now famous pass play from Frank Dancewicz to Phil Colella.

In addition, the films taken by two newsreel companies and shown to football writers at their weekly football luncheon yesterday, showed clearly that Dancewicz and Terry Brennan were stopped short of the goal line in their final two plunges from the one-foot line following the disputed pass.

• Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(P)—Last word on Saturday's Notre Dame-Navy tussle, as voiced by Steve Owen: "Well, it was a photo finish." . . . There wasn't much doubt in the minds of the scribes who saw the slow-motion films yesterday that the Irish had failed to score, both on the disputed pass play and the two shots at the line which followed it, and that Notre Dame's Frank Dancewicz busted the rules all to pieces on the final play by trying to shove Halfback Terry Brennan through the pack of Navy linemen.

. . . Another last word—Lt. Col. Carl Hinkle commenting on Army's attitude toward a Rose Bowl invitation: "Glen Davis comes from California and would like very much to play out there. As you know, Davis and Blanchard have a great influence on the coaching staff."

One-Minute Sports Page

It's a good bet that you'll find Dick Sisler, son of the celebrated George, playing first base for the St. Louis Cardinals next season while Ray Sanders goes to some other club. . . Dick, now being separated from the Navy, is an outfielder by trade but the word is that the Cards will send him south for training at a new position during the winter. . . Admiral William D. Leahy will sit on the Wisconsin side of the field when Navy plays the Badgers November 17. Leahy grew up in Ashland, Wis., and is an honorary alumnus of the university.

The Air Force P. D. C. Comets are looking for away-from-home games the weekends of November 14, 24 and December 1.

On The Bounce

Lt. Jim Denton of Maplewood, N. J., was playing golf at Frankfurt, Germany, last month. His third shot on a par five hole struck the hairless pate of a German prisoner of war working on the cup. . . "That," Jim wrote home, "was my baldeagle."

Cleaning The Cuff

Is there anything in the story from the midwest that Lt. Frank Leahy has been assigned to the Naval R. O. T. C. program at Notre Dame and will be back on the South Bend campus almost any day? . . . And, if it's true, what will Hughey Devore's position be? Ray Dumont, who plans to lease a big airplane plant at Wichita, Kas., and play one of his semi-pro tournament games there next summer in case of rain, points out: "There's a ceiling on nearly everything else these days, why not baseball?"

Camelli Frist of the Pirates to Sign

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 6.—(P)—Catcher Hank Camelli, who has just been discharged from the army, today became the first Pittsburgh Pirate player to sign for the 1946 baseball season. The reserve catcher entered the service last May 4.

Life Term Is Upheld On Holland

Opinion Of The Supreme Court Is Written By H. J. Westhues

The Missouri supreme court at Jefferson City affirmed Monday the first degree murder conviction of Edgar V. Holland, thus climaxing a case which horrified the Lake of the Ozarks resort region when the headless, mutilated bodies of two women were discovered on a lake shore in April 1944.

More than a month after the cold, rainy Sunday when the first body was found, the two decapitated torsos were identified as those of Mrs. Mollie Mattie Holland, 36, Holland's wife, and her mother, Mrs. Pearl Fairfax, 59.

Holland was convicted by a Pettis county circuit court jury last January of slaying his wife and was sentenced to life imprisonment. Charges involving his mother-in-law are still pending.

The 44-year-old ex-convict took his appeal to the high court last September and today's opinion, written by Commissioner Henry J. Westhues, apparently closed the door to his fight for freedom. The entire court concurred with Westhues' finding that Holland had failed on all counts of his appeal petition.

Formed "Tight Web"
"Many of the facts proven are meager in themselves," Westhues wrote of the testimony before the court, "but taken together they form a web so tight about the accused that there is no reasonable theory of escape."

The first body found was that of Mrs. Holland. Torn by two shotgun blasts fired at short range, with its head hacked away and the right leg gone, the torso had washed up on the muddy shore and was discovered among driftwood April 16, 1944.

The following day the body of the older woman was found just below that spot.

It also was decapitated. Examination showed it too had been shot at least twice. Neither of the heads nor the leg of the younger woman has ever been recovered.

A month later a relative identified the bodies and several days after that Holland told officers the bodies might be those of his wife and mother-in-law. He did not report the women's absence from their Pettis county farm, he told officers, because they frequently made long trips without telling him where they were going or when they would return.

Holland's appeal protested that the lower court had not shown he had a motive for killing the women, that "the evidence was insufficient to sustain a conviction" and that no evidence had been offered to show the Pettis county court had jurisdiction in the case.

Find Evidence Sufficient
One after another, the supreme court overruled those pleas, citing testimony which the opinion declared was sufficient in all particulars.

Testimony of several witnesses, the supreme court said, furnished substantial evidence that Holland and his wife had domestic troubles, that Holland resented his mother-in-law's presence in the home and that he would receive their jointly-held property on his wife's death.

One witness, J. R. Shane, testified at the trial last January that Holland complained because the women left him alone to "batch" so much of the time.

Shane quoted Holland as telling him "he had just as well be batching because they were gone so much of the time and left him and it made him so damned mad, he had a notion to take his gun and blow their damned heads off and throw them in the river."

The supreme court, noting from the evidence presented that the women were lightly clad at the time they were killed, that the weather was raw and rainy and that traces of human blood were found in the Holland kitchen, declared it substantially proven the women met death at the Holland home in Pettis county, giving the lower court proper jurisdiction.

The high court said the evidence was circumstantial and, if taken alone, "insignificant." But taken as a whole, the court said, the evidence proved Holland's guilt.

Argument on the appeal was made early in September by Holland's attorney, Fred F. Wesner.

Fall Festival At La Monte Great Success

Planned and Carried out by Schools of Area

Beginning with a parade and climaxed by the crowning of a queen, Sadie Whitfield, senior of LaMonte high school, the Fall Education Festival of LaMonte, held Friday, was deemed a success. Though several rural schools participated they were unable to bring in floats for the parade which was thus formed by only the local LaMonte schools.

Gillum Hughes, mounted on a prancing, spotted pony, "Tooter," led the line of march, accompanied by a cavalry division of long-eared animals (not horses) belonging to Scott Higgins. Bobby Reavis produced an enthusiastic steed (not a sheep) as evidenced by its bleating. Also augmenting the forces were numbers of brightly decorated bicycles, a sophomore "phantasy" and other unique features.

Primary Float Wins

A float representing a Halloween spectacle, sponsored by the primary room of which Mrs. Mohler is teacher, brought first place in the parade. Mrs. Meade's intermediate room received second and the freshman class of the high school, headed by Miss M. B. Donnelly, with a farm representation, scored third. Judges were Miss Dora Benz, Mrs. Clay Curtis and Mrs. George Brown.

Following this opening event, a dinner was served in the hallway of the gymnasium building.

At 2 p. m. the group assembled for a program of music and dramatics. Miss Dora Benz, Jackson school, presented a humorous playlet, "When Doc Meets Doc," and a recitation, "Hallowe'en," by Kitty Klein. Mrs. James Fowler, Oak Point school, supplied a chorus and musical play, Mrs. Marjorie Curtis, Bleak Mound school, gave a dialogue number and Mrs. LaVerne Stewart produced a Hallowe'en song and recitations.

From LaMonte school, Mrs.

Meade, music director, presented numbers from the primary, second and intermediate rooms. Mrs. Marian Hughes directed a seventh and eighth grade play, "Jimmy Has Ideas of His Own."

Many individual awards were presented for exhibits, which were of high quality, but judges made no decision as to the best school representation.

Athletics On Program

A softball game between the Green Ridge and LaMonte boys and a game of volleyball by girls of the two schools followed the program.

The evening program was inaugurated with several numbers by a junior girls' chorus followed by a play, "The Farmer's Daughter," coached by Mrs. Buckley and presented by the third year English class. In conclusion, the senior girls' chorus sang. All music was directed by Mrs. Meade.

The "crowning" ceremony of the day was the coronation march to the throne by the queen, Miss Sadie Whitfield, and her consort, Max Rice, with knights, pages and attendants in large number adding to the spectacle. Miss Bina Higgins was crown bearer with Misses Irene Brown, Mary Guthrie, Jean Mahin and Evelyn Smith as ladies in waiting. The queen was selected by popular vote.
